ONYEKACHI ONWUDIKE-JUMBO (PH.D)

Hi there & Welcome!

Many young people have gained the skills and knowledge that the job market currently needs. However, getting into the proper role immediately after college can be extremely daunting.

Beyond getting into roles, many people are unsure where or how to start the job search process. Therefore, I have come up with a list of job portals in different countries to help you through the process. There is nothing as bad as having the knowledge and not knowing where or how to put the knowledge to good use.

We live in times of critical awareness and immense knowledge, and you must wake up to this realisation. The more you put yourself out there, the more you know where to submit your CV, the closer you are to landing a job.

This is the first release in this series, and as the days go by, I will release more current versions of the job portals. As you go through the list, you will find that some job portals are for specialised roles like IT and tech jobs.

It would help if you took the time to go through the job portals for jobs aligned with your career goals and where you see yourself in a few years.

As you search for jobs, you must also improve your skills to compete favourably in the job market. I wish you the best in your search for a job that offers fulfillment, and I'm cheering you on all the way.

With my best wishes always.

NEW GRADUATES IN SWITZERLAND

Although the unemployment rate for Switzerland in October 2021 was 2.6%. Research shows that finding a job in Switzerland can be easy and challenging.

The Swiss job market welcomes foreigners, especially in senior management level positions.

However, competition for places is stiff because the country is small with a high quality of life. Experts around the globe flock to Switzerland, calling it home, leaving very few job vacancies.

This coupled with the fact that Switzerland requires companies to defend their reasoning for hiring a foreigner over a Swiss native, and you have to job hunt, which on its own is a job as well.

Thus, I have put together a list of job portals to source for jobs as a fresh graduate, an established professional or a foreigner.

NEW GRADUATES IN SWEDEN

The unemployment rate in Sweden increased significantly from March 2020 because of the Coronavirus outbreak (COVID-19). It was highest in May 2020 when it reached 9.2 percent and has been around nine per cent since. In August 2021, it fell to 8.9 percent, the lowest since December 2020. As a foreigner, it's challenging to search for a job because most jobs require fluency in Swedish. Recently, Sweden had a high demand for foreigners wanting work permits because they have high-quality jobs and high quality of life. For this reason, I have compiled a list of job portals to help you make your search easier.

Conclusion

The unemployment rate in Sweden increased significantly from March 2020 because of the Coronavirus outbreak (COVID-19). It was highest in May 2020 when it reached 9.2 percent and has been around nine per cent since. You can read more about this here.

As a foreigner, it's challenging to search for a job because most jobs require fluency in Swedish. Recently, Sweden had a high demand for foreigners wanting work permits because they have high-quality jobs and high quality of life. For this reason, I have compiled a list of job portals to help you make your search easier.

I hope you find this helpful in your job search.

Looking and applying for jobs is a job on its own, and I want to help
you simplify this process.

I'd be releasing this guide in volumes
as I update the links to more portals.
Remember, I'm cheering you on, and with this in your hand, you're closer to a job than you can imagine.

With Best Wishes
